

Insights from a topped out quality measure:

HBIPS-1: Admission Screening

How well are facilities hitting the mark?

24 in 25

Inpatients were reported as screened for all 5 components

7 in 10

Facilities are High Performers

Reported screening at least 95% of inpatients for all components

When facilities miss, how far off are they?

36%

of inpatients with incomplete screenings were missing more than one component

Higher Performing Facilities

22%

of patients with incomplete screenings were missing more than one component.

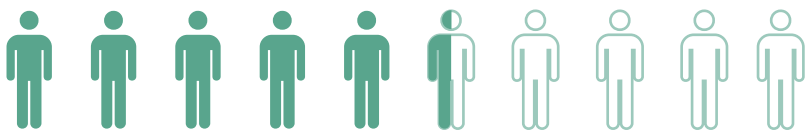

Lower Performing Facilities

40%

of patients with incomplete screenings were missing more than one component.

What do they miss on?

PATIENT STRENGTHS

SUBSTANCE USE IN THE PAST 12 MONTHS

VIOLENCE RISK TO OTHERS IN THE PAST 6 MONTHS

VIOLENCE RISK TO SELF IN THE PAST 6 MONTHS

PSYCHOLOGICAL TRAUMA HISTORY

Though many facilities report success, there is always room for improvement!

Admission screening provides an opportunity to establish rapport and understand the patient more deeply.

Patient strengths are the most frequently missed. Reminding patients of their resources can empower them to meet goals in treatment.

Analysis by Rachel Nowlin

For an opportunity to see your topic discussed here, email your questions to Jessica.Ingram@horizonhealth.com